Research in Aged Care bathroom design

Governments both locally and internationally are increasing pressure on the Aged Care/Independent Living sectors to prioritise aged care design mainly due to demand from consumers. With little research having been done to establish specific bathroom design needs for what is becoming an ageing population, new products are being asked for to cater for the basic needs of those who will use them.

New specific bathroom designs + products are needed, we at Benelli Global are trying to show that initiative to find and eventually supply 'New Products' we feel will service and be practical to these clients.

To be compliant with the government's vision to address the design issues of the bathroom environment, we are ensuring we stay close to and are following what the government has introduced as several changes and initiatives. These include changes to the Building Code of Australia (BCA) disability access codes, the CSIRO's 'Smarter, Safer Homes' initiative and new design guidelines through Liveable Housing Australia (LHA)4.

Independent living and bathroom design

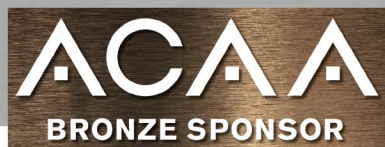

Bathroom design is of importance when it comes to independent living as those aged over 65 years are more prone to slips and falls, with research showing 80% of these falls occur in the bathroom.

Consumers considering Aged Care is decreasing with the 45-60 age bracket increasing, with the intention to stay at home longer. Property owners are increasing the frequency with which they refit their bathrooms, and as part of the process are considering design options which cater for independent living. We see this as both adding value to their property, and enhancing well designed bathrooms.

Within this catalogue is our initial offerings, let us know how we can assist with new ideas and any questions.

Solid surface material

Benelli's Bassin Basins are made from high quality Solid Surface material.

Solid Surface is a man made, non porous, low maintenance and hygienic material. It's designed to have the feel of silk, the quality and appeal of natural stone and the hygienic properties of stainless steel. It is easy to care for, incredibly stylish and offers endless design flexibility. It's no wonder this incredible substance is fast becoming the leader in commercial & residential design.

Mineral casting is a material mixture of natural stone powder resin. Its special properties, such as the high temperature stability, large design possibilities make mineral casting a high-quality and flexible material.

Bassin basins are made of natural stone powder and polyester resin. The great advantage over conventional material is the particularly large design possibility. By refining the surface with a gelcode layer, the objects are equipped with a high-gloss look. The refined mineral casting is resistant and easy to care for.

AS1428.1 COMPLIANT

Benelli are devoted to creating a range of products which are not only designed to be AS1428.1 compliant, but sophisticated and stylish as well.

We are continuously searching the globe to bring our vision to the Australian Market. As our Bassin range grows, our dedication to combining contemporary products with accessibility for our growing ageing and disabled population grows with it.

Prices exclude GST (10% if applicable).
